

Larca lata

Larca lata has only been found at one locality in Windsor Great Park where it was collected from nest debris in a decaying oak tree. This is a typical locality for this very rare European species.